Company Seminar

... create a better communication

In an intercultural environment, every-day company communication such as personal contacts, telephoning, meetings, presentations as well as business letters, emails and memos is full of hidden traps. The resulting misunderstandings can affect your business success.

The three-day Business Communication Seminar trains the basics of spoken and written communication and supports you in the challenges of an increasingly globalised world. The goal is to increase your self-confidence and optimise the skills needed for a successful interchange of ideas in international situations.
